With more than 55 offices, CresaPartners is the largest tenant representation firm in North America, bringing a highly strategic focus to the real estate counsel provided to corporate clients. The Atlanta office is led by five managing principals, totaling more than 100 years of combined real estate experience, with a staff of more than 30.

Approach

The professionals at CresaPartners are passionate about understanding the needs of their clients to deliver exceptional service for the long term. By choosing to represent the interests of tenants alone, CresaPartners avoids conflicts of interest. Principals have an average tenure of more than 20 years, priding themselves on collaborating with clients to provide service-oriented rather than transaction-oriented counsel.
