

Andrew Orpik

Senior Advisor
Boston

Professional Experience

Andrew joined Cresa in 2013 and is a member of the urban advisory team, providing transaction and account management services to tenants in the Boston marketplace. He specializes in developing new business, strategic planning, market analysis and negotiating lease transactions.

Education

Andrew attended the Carroll School of Management at Boston College and earned a Bachelor of Science in Marketing in 2009. Andrew played hockey at Boston College, reaching the national finals three times and winning the 2008 National Championship.

Affiliations

Andrew is a member of the Boston Commercial Brokers Association (CBA) and the Boston College Real Estate Council. He is the Co-Founder of the Comm Ave Charity Classic, a hockey game benefitting local charities that has raised over a quarter of a million dollars in its first four years. Additionally, Andrew actively supports Team IMPACT and runs a Boston College Hockey Mentoring Program.

Personal Interests

When Andrew is not at the office, you can likely find him on the golf course, trying a new restaurant or volunteering his time to causes like Team IMPACT or the Comm Ave Classic.
