

Catherine Thompson

Advisor, Transaction Management Boston

Professional Experience

Catherine has served in the real estate industry since 2017, having held roles in advisory and transaction management for investor and corporate clients across the country. At Cresa, Catherine focuses on tenant advocacy in the management and negotiation of industrial leases, sales, and purchases. She balances clients' immediate real estate needs and long-term objectives and values to deliver creative and adaptable space solutions that enhance clients' business performance and work experience.

Education

Catherine earned Bachelor of Sciences in business and interdisciplinary studies from The University of Texas at Arlington in 2014. She also received Master of Arts in management and arts administration from Roosevelt University in 2016. Most recently, Catherine completed executive education certification programs at Columbia University and The Wharton School focused on construction management and data analytics.

Personal Interests

Catherine enjoys spending time with her family and friends. She is committed to supporting the fine arts in her community and is an active member of her church. Catherine's other hobbies include attending symphony and opera concerts, music festivals, traveling, restaurant hopping and basketball. restaurants, and spending time with her family and friends.

Contact

469.938.5875 mobile
cthompson@cresa.com