Professional Experience

Jack Schwaba is an advisor with Cresa's Occupier Services brokerage team. Jack joined Cresa from CARR, where he gained over 18 months of experience as a real estate broker representing tenants and buyer-side purchases for clients in the healthcare sector. He provides a variety of strategic brokerage and consulting services that allow his clients to achieve their business and financial goals. His comprehensive process probes deeply into his clients' businesses to understand corporate objectives and realize opportunities to optimize their real estate assets.

Prior to embracing the challenge of being a commercial real estate broker, Jack spent 5 years in corporate sales – primarily in technology for companies like Uber and Compass. His attention to detail, technical background, and ability to connect with clients has been instrumental in his professional development.

When not working, Jack enjoys getting to know Chicago's neighborhoods by visiting the newest restaurants and coffee shops, going to the park and reading the latest fantasy or science fiction novel, and seeing as much live music that Chicago has to offer.
