

J.C. Renshaw

Principal
Cresa Consulting Group

Professional Experience

John (J.C.) Renshaw is a Principal in Cresa Consulting Group and serves as the Service Line Leader for Supply Chain and Distribution Operations and Strategy Consulting for Industrial Services.

J.C. possesses more than 30 years of experience as a Senior Supply Chain Executive including 10+ years of expertise in supply chain strategy and operations consulting with Accenture, more than 5 years leading the site selection, construction and start-up of several large-scale distribution centers for The Home Depot as well as 15 years of leading DC operations across a variety of industries. J.C. has deep experience assessing distribution operations, leading distribution center/network transformations, domestic and international distribution operations, facility layout and flow optimization, third party logistics outsourcing, performance and cost improvement, and logistics systems functional design and implementation.

J.C. brings a track record of success in improving operational efficiency, maximizing operational and human performance, lowering costs and inventory levels, improving order cycle time, incorporating technology solutions and delivering to the highest expectations.

Education

Clemson University, Bachelor of Arts, Political Science

Contact

678.575.9530 mobile
jrenshaw@cresa.com