

Howard Feuerstein

Principal Downtown Los Angeles

Professional Experience

Howard began his career in 1970 in New York City working for a large real estate brokerage firm that specialized tenant representation. At the time New York was going through an economic downturn with major corporations leaving the city for the suburbs. This proved to be a great training ground for him. In 1973 Howard moved to Los Angeles and continued his real estate career working for a national brokerage company that had recently opened an LA office. He continued to focus on the representation of tenants only which was a new concept in the L.A. market. Howard joined Travers Realty/Cresa in 1996.
