

David Danick

Senior Vice President
New York

Professional Experience

David Danick recently joined Cresa as a Senior Vice President bringing more than 30 years of commercial real estate experience. David is experienced in occupier representation, commercial property leasing, and strategic opportunity development.

Throughout his career, David has garnered a comprehensive understanding of what businesses need, not only in terms of space and location, but operationally as well. He believes that creating a real estate plan around a client's business model is of the utmost importance. David has a thorough understanding of the Manhattan market, and knows how to build and foster long-term client relationships.

Prior to joining Cresa, he was Senior Managing Director at Coldwell Banker Commercial Advisors and formally served as a Senior Director of Leasing at Winoker Realty.
