

Malori Clark

Operations and Marketing Associate Phoenix

Professional Experience

Malori Clark joins Cresa's Phoenix office as an Operations and Marketing Associate. Her primary focus is to support the firm's advisors behind the scenes. She works to organize and facilitate day-to-day requests related to client and prospecting efforts while ensuring quality client deliverables are executed. Leveraging her design, writing and social media capabilities, Malori also assists the marketing team by preparing internal projects, creating market surveys, developing marketing collateral, and assisting with social media management.

Prior to Cresa, Malori worked as a freelance marketer for six years, gaining valuable agency experience which focused on account management for various portfolio clients.

Education

Malori received her Bachelor's of Science in Marketing from Grand Canyon University, as well as an Associates of Arts in Business Administration from Cowley College.
