

Connor Hofmann

Advisor
San Diego

Professional Experience

As an advisor in Cresa's San Diego office, Connor supports transaction management for office and industrial occupiers. His background in political science allows him unique insight to the local market landscape. He works in tandem with seasoned real estate veterans to provide valuable data and analyses that help his clients make informed decisions that align with their business objectives.

Prior to joining Cresa, Connor served as a project engineer for a construction company in San Diego, focusing on infrastructure work. A college and (former) professional baseball player, Connor understands the formidable force behind team coherence. His strengths lie in transparent communication, nurturing a collaborative workforce and attention to detail.

Education

B.A., Political Science - University of San Francisco

Political Science - University of Oregon

Contact

858.200.6302 mobile

chofmann@cresa.com